

"The Saxophone Player"

(liner notes & prose from the cd "The Saxophone Player" [The Best of John Klemmer Vol. II.]

The Saxophone Player, sometimes like a man, sometimes like a child always human, always, there

The Saxophone Player, sometimes tender, sometimes intense always from the guts, always the emotion

The Saxophone Player, from the groin, from the tears, from the Horn/Body, trying to eat the Sound/Life, breathing in and out for the Feel/Bath

The Saxophone Player, the product of all that's been heard, felt, seen and experienced, moving hopefully, to, uniqueness

The Saxophone Player, It is everything & nothing but what it is. Does it have to be more?

The Saxophone Player
